Pat Nixon Appointment To Council Was Illegal

SAN CLEMENTE, Jan. 1, under the Domestic Volunteer (AP)—President Nixon's appointment of his wife to serve on a national advisory council was illegal, the Western White House said today. House said today.

A presidential spokesman said the law prohibits the President from appointing a relative to a government position, and therefore Mrs. Nixon cannot serve on the new 25-member National Voluntary Service Advisory Council.

In announcing the appoint cannot serve on the new 25-member National Voluntary Service Advisory Council.

In announcing the appointment Sunday, the White House said the First Lady had been designated by Mr. Nixon as temporary chairwoman of the council. She was to have been eligible for a regular government consultant fee of $138.48 for each day worked at council duties.

The White House statement released today did not explain how the mistake was made or how it was discovered.

The council was established

The council was established ary

cial service organizations.

chairman.