WXPost

F7

Tax Deduction, Step

By Jack Anderson

President Nixon "must have known" that a backdated deed was used to obtain his cele-brated $576,000 tax deduction, according to sources who are his pre-presidential papers in completely familiar with the his law offices. preparation of the President's controversial tax returns.

They contend that he not only instructed his subordinates to seek the deduction but kept a sharp eye on their efforts.

The President, who specialized in tax law as a young lawyer, fully understood his tax returns before signing them, our sources stress.

If an ordinary taxpayer backdated a document to gain a halfmillion-dollar tax write-off, he would find himself in the soup. Most likely, he would be investigated for filing a false claim and evading taxes.

The question is whether Mr. Nixon donated his vice presidential papers before July 25, 1969. This was the last day he could take a tax deduction for the papers.

In his defense, White House loyalists insist he declared his intention to donate the papers before the deadline and left it to underlings to implement his wishes.

We have spent several weeks investigating the President's tax returns. From sources who have followed the developments closely, we can now provide the complete his appraisal of the 1969. This was notarized by the curious chronology of the Nixon deeded papers. Apparently, he President's tax afformer Frank

Before Richard Nixon moved from his New York law firm to the White House, he stored all decided in December, 1968, to take a tax break by donating some of the papers to the government. Ralph Newman, an expert appraiser of historical documents, was called in from Chicago to evaluate the gift. He selected enough documents to justify the $80,000 tax deduction that Mr. Nixon wanted. Then Mr. Nixon signed over the documents to the government in a deed, which was also accepted by signature.

Our sources say Mr. Nixon was annoyed with his former law partners over the $128,611 settlement they gave him when he left the firm. He felt they had short-changed him by not taking into account all the clients his name had drawn to the firm. Angrily, he ordered all his papers moved to the Archives, which was happy to store them for him. The deeded papers arrived on March 20, 1969. Six days later, several more dusty crates packed with papers arrived. The Archives began processing were deposited in an area re-served for "courtesy storage."

Ralph Newman paid a visit to documents, which were kept on tary seal to April 21, 1969.

a different floor. The backdated dee

Congress voted in December, his top lobbyist, Bryce Harlow, to Capitol Hill to delay the cutoff date until the end of 1969. Instead, Congress retroactively set July 25, 1969, as the dead-

Meanwhile, Ralph Newman Nixon Papers. He was inpers to justify a tax deduction of $500,000. His appraisal began on complete description of the pa-dated deed. pers the President claims to have donated the previous year. tax returns, which he signed on April 10.

Based on Newman's final 1970 appraisal, the President returned to the Archives. tion. Yet no deductions were the deeded papers. The rest supposed to be allowed after were deposited in an area reproblem, then-White House aide Edward L. Morgan simply the Archives from April 6 to 8 to backdated the deed to March 27.

deeded papers. Apparently, he President's tax attorney, Frank didn't even look at the other DeMarco, who backdated his no-deed. course, wasn't submitted to the 1969, to outlaw tax deductions Archives until April, 1970, with for private papers. When the the phony explanation that it President realized what Con-had been lying around Degress was about to do, he sent Marco's office. The deed contained neither Mr. Nixon's signature nor the acceptance signature, which are required under government regulations.

Curiously, the deed was called back by the White House Meanwhile, Ralph Newman on Sept. 13, 1971. Our sources was summoned from Chicago say the backdate deed was again to appraise the remaining causing some nervous afterthoughts. In early 1972, the Presstructed to set aside enough pa-ident again assigned his lobby ists to try to repeal the July 25. 1969, cut-off date. This would Nov. 3 and was completed on have removed any question bec. 8, 1969. The following about the legality of the $576,000 march 27, he sent the Archives a tax deduction and the back-

A proposed bill was drafted nave donated the previous year. and given to Clark MacGregor, The formal appraisal was drawn then the chief White House lobup on April 6, 1970, and was attached to President Nixon's congressional support for it. Finally on Jan. 13, 1973, as questions were being raised about the tax deduction, the deed was Footnote: Both Morgan and DeMarco contend that the backdating of the deed was entirely proper, because it formalized what the President had wanted to do before the deadline.

1974, United Feature Syndicate, Inc.