

Senate Republican leader, Hugh Scott, said today that he expects President Nixon to (quote) "respond to all relevant inquiries the House Judiciary Committee puts to him" (unquote). Scott said he was ~~and~~ making the statement on the basis of what he knows and what he believes. He added that (quote) "if the rug is pulled out from under me, I will have something to say later. I'll be damned if I'll be a patsy for anybody." (unquote)

The AP, commenting on Scott's statement, said the senator is sensitive to suggestions from other members of the Senate that he's being had by the White House.
