

Editor — It is the sweetest justice that America is being battered by truckers, the very instrument through which Nixon's CIA destroyed the democratic government of Chile.

America has now just barely begun to account for its sins in Vietnam, too. You are paying the price for having tolerated a Lyndon Johnson—and that price is Richard Nixon.

There is a God of Justice in this world; America will reap the whirlwind.

The Beard

Editor — President Nixon's speech at the Lincoln Memorial alluded to President Lincoln's bearing up so strongly under great unwarranted criticism and thereby, in effect, put himself on the same pedestal as Mr. Lincoln's. May I suggest the criticism of that great President did not attack his honesty while in office as is the case today.

The nearest resemblance President Nixon could make of himself to Mr. Lincoln would be if he grew a beard and even then most Americans would wonder if he kept it in his desk drawer when not out in public.
