Trial of Mitchell and Stans Starts Here

Their trial on charges of conspiracy, obstruction of justice and perjury will open in Federal District Court here at Jury.

Their trial on charges of conspiracy, obstruction of justice presiding judge in the trial, and the President's 1972 cambridge of the president of the pres eral District Court here at 10 A.M. unless there is an unexpected postponement.

It will be the first trial of men who were leading figures in President Nixon's Administration and the first criminal case against former Cabinet members since the trials of two officials from the Harding Administration in the nineteen twenties.

In the Mitchell-Stans case, the central charge is that the defendants used their influence to impede an investigation of Robert L. Vesco, a financier who secretly contributed $200, 000 in cash to Mr. Nixon's network of the court of the Mitchell-Stans case and other trials in the United States Courthouse to impede an investigation of Robert L. Vesco, a financier who secretly contributed $200, 000 in cash to Mr. Nixon's re-election campaign.

Mr. Mitchell and Mr. Stans, who will be sequestered who headed the President's marshals for the entire trial.

Jonn W. Dean 3d, the Presi-flor their alleged counsel, and the defense tawyers may use White House tapes in cross case, at the defense expects the prospective jurors. The defense expects the prospective jurors and accommodate fewer than 10 jurors at a time, but 2,300 have been summoned this week as potential panels for the Mitchell-Stans case and other trials in the United States Courthouse to impede an investigation of Robert L. Vesco, a financier who secretly contributed $200, 000 in cash to Mr. Nixon's re-election campaign.

Mr. Mitchell and Mr. Stans, who will be sequestered without Mr. Vesco's dealings with the Nixon Administration.

The charge that the defense awyers may use White House tapes in cross examining him.

The defense expects the prospective introces at the alleged go-between in five years in prison for each mark. Vesco's dealings with the Nixon Administration.

The charge that the top S.E.C. officials at the time, the United States Courthouse as the alleged go-between in five years in prison for each mark. Vesco's dealings with the Nixon Administration.

The charge that the defense expects the prospective introces at a time, b

By ARNOLD H. LUBASCH

Jury selection begins today ing interfered with the Vesco in the trial of former Attorney. General John N. Mitchell and former Commerce Secretary

After the jury selection, the prosecution and the defense are expected to devote more than a month to the testimony of witnesses, including former as lindage Lee P. Gagliardi, the sistants from the White House possible controlled. Judge Lee P. Gagliardi, the sistants from the White House poration controlled.

Last May 10, the two former Cabinet officers were indicted The prosecutors plan to call with Mr. Vesco and Mr. Sears John W. Dean 3d, the Presi-for their alleged scheme to obdent's dismissed counsel, and struct the investigation by example of the struct the investigation of the struct the investigation of the struct the investigation by example of the struct the investigation of the struct the investigation by example of the struct the investigation of the structure of the st