

Nixon Doctor's Tax Trial Starts

New York

A doctor who has attended President Nixon and former Governor Nelson A. Rockefeller went on trial yesterday on charges he failed to report more than $71,000 in fees he received from his famous patients.

The Internal Revenue Service has accused Dr. W. Kenneth Riland, an osteopath who also is chief physician of the U.S. Steel Corp., of evading $39,300 in joint income taxes.
