

Nixon's Streaking

Streaking means one thing to collegians who dash in the altogether through public places and another to President Nixon.

As he was leaving his news conference yesterday evening, Mr. Nixon paused to greet Sarah Mc-

Clendon, a Texas correspondent.

Miss McClendon observed that gray was showing in the President's hair and pointed to the area over his temples.

"Oh, Yes," Mr. Nixon replied with a smile, "they call that streaking."
