NYTimes MAR 11 1974 2 on Judiciary Panel Criticize Nixon for Not Disclosing Tapes

WASHINGTON, March 10 (Reuters)—Two members of the House Judiciary Committee expressed concern today about President Nixon's refusal to give up six Watergate tapes for the committee's investigation on whether to recommend impeachment of the President. They said that continued refusal would almost certainly lead to a subpoena for the tapes, and predicted that a refusal in the face of a subpoena could lead to the issuance of a contempt citation by the full House.

Not Full Cooperation
The two Representatives, Robert McClory of Illinois, the second-ranking Republican on the committee, and Robert W. Kastenmeier, a Liberal-Democrat from Wisconsin, made their remarks on the American Broadcasting Company program, "Issues and Answers."
Mr. Kastenmeier contended that should the President be found in contempt of Congress by refusing to turn over the tapes, that in itself would be grounds for impeachment.
The committee will meet the special watergate prosecutor, Leon Jaworski. On another program, Republican Senator Charles H. Percy of Illinois said he was "distressed" by Mr. Nixon's refusal to comply with Mr. Jaworski's full request for tapes and documents. Speaking on the Columbia Broadcasting System's program, "Face the Nation," the Senator said that the White House chief of staff, Gen. Alexander M. Haig Jr., had pledged grounds for impeachment.

The committee will meet Jaworski would be turned over.
