

Pat Nixon Is Better

Washington

Pat Nixon was reported "feeling better" yesterday, suffering mostly from fatigue from her six-day, 9100-mile trip to Latin America last week.

President Nixon had said she was suffering from "just plain flu" and a slight fever when she missed a St. Patrick's Day worship service in the White House Sunday. Mrs. Nixon's press secretary, Helen Smith, said yesterday that the First Lady was very tired and was resting up after her trip.
