Ford Urges Nixon Flexibility on Tapes

By MARJORIE HUNTER

Special to The New York Times

WASHINGTON, May 2—Vice President Ford said today that he thought President Nixon
"could have been more forceful" in investigating the Watergate break-in when he first learned of it.

Mr. Ford also said that he thought that it might be wise if the White House showed "more flexibility" in the dispute over verifying the accuracy of transcriptions of tape recorded

Committee for the Re-election of the Resident, terming it una arrogant, elite guard of publican on the committee, Edward Hutchinson of Michigan. However, Mr. Ford said last night at a news conference in Charlotte, N. C., that he would strongly oppose allowing the House was at least in part responsible for the continued struggle over Watergate and possible impeachment.

Commenting on the release of the transcrips, he said:
"I wish the White House had done this many months before.

Watergate troubles.

But he also seemed to indicate today that the White House was at least in part responsible for the continued struggle over Watergate and possible impeachment.

Commenting on the release of the transcrips, he said:
"I wish the White House had done this many months before.

Watergate troubles.

But he also seemed to indicate today that the White House was at least in part responsible for the continued struggle over Watergate and possible impeachment.

Commenting on the release of the transcrips, he said:
"I wish the White House had done this many months before.

With the Re-election of the ranking Re-ward Hutchinson of Michigan.

However, Mr. Ford said last ward Hutchinson of Michigan.

However, Mr. Ford said last piph the ward Hutchinson of Michigan.

However, Mr. Ford said last piph the ward Hutchinson of Michigan.

However, Mr. Ford said last piph the ward Hutchinson of Michigan.

However, Mr. Ford said last piph the ward Hutchinson of Michigan.

However, Mr. Ford said last piph the ward Hutchinson of Michigan.

However, Mr. Ford said last piph the ward Hutchinson of Michigan.

However, Mr. Ford said last p

But while critical of Mr. Nixon's handling of the Water-gate affair, Mr. Ford said that he was "convinced beyond any doubt" that the President was innocent of any wrongdoing.

While praising the White House for releasing the transcripts, Mr. Ford expressed some measure of support for His coments on the Water-gate matter came during an interview today on the Nation-al Broadcasting Company's "today" proram.

The Vice President said that he became convinced of the President's innocence in the President's innocence in the Watergate break-in and subsequent cover-up "after reading quent cover-up "after reading a good bit of the transcripts. rceeFslun

Question of Forcefulness

However, asked if he questioned the way the President had handled the matter, Mr. Ford replied:

However, asked if he questioned the way the President had handled the matter, Mr. Ford replied:

"I think as you replay the whole scenario, going back to June 17, 1972, that the White House, including the President, could have been more forceful in bringing the people from in bringing the people from CREEP into the White House and saying, 'Now, look here. Something's gone wrong. I want to get to the bottom of it. And you better tell me the full story.

Something's gone wrong. I want to get to the bottom of it. And you better tell me the full story.

He also reiterated an earlier scripts, Mr. Ford expressed some measure of support for those members of the House Judiaciary Committee who feel that the transcripts are not an adequate substitute for the tapes.

Yesterday, John M. Doar, chief counsel of the committee, reported some discrepencies between the transcripts and some tapes in the committee's possession. The committee voted last night, 20 to 18, to reject the transcripts as a substitute for the apes.

Asked his views on the isfull story.

"Now, as I read the transcripts, it seems to me that there was some delay."

Mr. Ford has been highly trapes, along with the commitcritical in recent weeks of the transcripts.

"more flexibility" in the dispute over verifying the accuracy of transcriptions of tape recorded conversations between the Presi dent and certain key aides.

I think if the White House had lindicated this before, it would indicated this before, it would indicated this before, it would if he had not known about them in advance.

At his news conference last

At his news conference last night, Mr. Ford also defended his own role in helping to block a House committee's investigaa House committee's investiga-tion in 1972 of the Watergate break-in.

He said that he was only carrying out "my responsibilit as House minority leader in 1972 in seeking to block the proposed investigation by the House Banking and Currency Committee.

The White House transcripts released this week quoted Pre dent Nixon as urging White House aides to enlist Mr. Ford's help in rounding up Repub-lican votes against such an investigation.