Nixon's Holiday Weekend in Florida

Key Biscayne

President Nixon flew to Florida yesterday for a long Memorial Day weekend.

It was the second consecutive weekend Mr. Nixon has spent at his vacation home on Biscayne Bay. Mrs. Nixon, who accompanied him last weekend, stayed behind to visit friends and do some shopping in New York City. White House chief of staff Alexander M. Haig Jr., and press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler were the only aides accompanying Mr. Nixon.

He is expected to make two radio addresses to the nation from Florida before returning to Washington Monday or Tuesday.

A speech outlining new moves to curb inflation is scheduled for today, followed by a Memorial Day address on Monday.
