

Ownership of Tapes

I disagree with the White House opinion that the tapes and similar documents belong to Mr. Nixon. The blank tapes, recorders, typewriters, paper and all supplies were supplied by his employer, and he and his staff were paid for their time and services.

If Mr. Nixon becomes the owner of the products of his work, the auto workers should be the owners of the cars they make, the steelworkers of the steel they produce, the carpenters of the houses they build. Nonsense! The employer government owns the products of its employees.

TILFORD E. DUDLEY.

Washington,