Ouestions on Health of Nixon Involve Treatment and Courts

By LAWRENCE K. ALTMAN

Rlchard M. Nixon?

eryone, apparently including gren said he would have "no some officials in the White comment" until "I have ob-

The answers to the seemingly limitless number of questions firm Mrs. Eisenhower's report that have bee aised in recent that her father would enter a days about Mr. Nixon's mental hospital. He cited the confidenand physical health are not tiality of the patient-doctor relationship.

ternal medicine:

"I examined him yesterday. I comment on the report.

"I reating him on a continuge basis."

Spokeshian Said, world comment on the report.

Dr. Lungren also said he had "no comment" on the ABC ream treating him on a continu-ing basis."

Asked if Mr. Nixon had the port.

How sick is former President less dangerous superficial or the more dangerous deep ven-That question is baffling evous thrombophlebitis, Dr. Lunserved him a little longer."

Dr. Lungren declined to con-

However, the facts involved are of critical importance not just to the Nixon family but also to the nation's political and judicial systems.

Yesterday, Julie Nixon Eisenhower added to the confusion about the state of Mr. Nixon's health by disclosing that her father would be "hospitalized in a week or so because of the"

Telationship.

Dr. Lungren also said that he clearly understood the public confusion that had been raised by the lack of specific medical facts and details amid statements made by Nixon family members and the series of dramatic statements that Dr. Tkach made over the weekend.

New Blood Clot Cited Dr. Tkach, after conferming health by disclosing that her father would be "hospitalized in a week or so because of the phlebitis."

Though Mr. Nixon apparently agreed to the recommendation, made by one of his doctors, Air Force Maj. Gen. Walter Tkach, last week, the timing of his hospitalization puzzled doctors familiar with the treatment of phlebitis.

Patients with a flare-up of chronic phlebitis, such as Mr. Nixon, are generally hospitalized so that treatment with blood-thinning, o anticoagulant, drugs can be started and diagnostic tests done immediately, not in a few weeks. Dr. Tkach has said he consideed anticoagulant therapy "critical" in Mr. Nixon's case.

Some Open Questions

Mr. Nixon's apparent rejection of is doctors' medical recommendations—to take anticoagulants, to wear elastic leg stockings and to keep his left leg constantly outstretched and elevated—raise other unanswered questions, such as the following:

To what extent has Mr. Nixon's made over the weekend.

New Blood Clot Cited

Dr. Tkach, after conferring with Dr. Lungren, issued a terse statement in San Clemente, Calif., sayying that Mr. Nixon had developed a new blood clot and a flare-up of the chronic phlebitis in his left thigh.

Dr. Tkach's office at Andrews Air Force Base, where he has assumed a new job as command surgeon for the Air Force Systems Command, said the Air Force general was "unavailable" and did not want to discuss Mr. Nixon's case further with the press.

"Any actions that Dr. Tkach has had, or will have, in connection with the health of former President Nixon will be reported as required from San Clemente," a spokesman for Dr. Tkach said.

Dr. Tkach said mr. Nixon will be reported as required from San Clemente, a flare-up of the chronic phlebitis in his left thigh.

Dr. Tkach's office at Andrews Air Force Base, where he has assumed a new job as command surgeon for the Air Force Systems Command, said the Air Force general was "unavailable" and did not want to discuss Mr. Nixon's case.

Some Open Questions

Mr. Nixon's apparent rejection of is docto elevated—raise other unanswered questions, such as the following:

To what extent has Mr. Nixon aggravated his condition by uch refusals?

The had followed the prescribed therapy, would the phlebitis have cleared up by now?

Twhy announce his proposed hospitaization a week in advance? Is t a tactic to avoid appearing in court in the Watergate cover-up trial and others?
There is no way to get detailed answers to the questions that only Mr. Nixon and his physicians Dr. Tkach and Dr. John C. Lungren of Long Beach, Calif., can answer.

Yesterday, Dr. Lungren said in a telephone interview from his office in Long Beach, where he has a private practice in internal medicine:

"I examined him vesterday. I spokesman said, would not