Ford Still Supports Flanigan for Envoy

President Ford's support yes- charge terday for the nomination of against Mr. Flanigan." Peter M. Flanigan to be U.S. ambassador to Spain, now locked in controvesy before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Ron Nessen announced yesterday that the President "stands the embassadorial appointment by" his recommendation of of a Mrs. Ruth Farkas." Flanigan, a five-year veteran of one of the few top aides during that period to escape the taint of the Watergate scandals.

At the same time Senate Foreign Relations Committee Chairman J. Fulbright (D-Ark.) scheduled an executive seesion next Wednesday to consider hearing further witnesses on the Flanigan nomination, which was bitterly attacked by Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton (D-Mo.).

gested taking swell.
from President Nixon's former attorney and campaign fundraiser, Hebert W. Kalmbach, who had told the House Judiciary Committee that Flanigan was involved in the bartering of ambassadorial jobs for campants of ambassadorial jobs for campants on the story. He is not under investigation. He is not a target."

The special prosecutor's of Both Eagleton and Flanigan, at the nomination heaing Wed-nesday, cited letters from is conducting an investigati

The White House reiterated | dence now in this office, no was contemplated

Jaworski went on to say: "We did point out that the appropriate person within the White House may wish to consider the testimony concern-White House press secretary ing Mr. Flanigan by Mr. Herbert Kalmbach . . . relating to Flanigan cited the Jaworski the Nixon White House and response to the White House as evidence that he had been absolved of any connection with the ongoing investigation of White House ambassadorial and financial dealings with Dr. Farkas, a wealthy New Hampshire contributor to the 1972 Nixon re-election campaign.

Eagleton cited the same response with the suggestion that Flanigan's role in the Farkas appointment may not yet have been fully resolved by Eagleton specifically sug-gested taking sworn testimony the special prosecutor's Office.

fice would not comment on nesday, cited letters from Watergate Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski to make opposing points.

Jaworski wrote Eagleton that the special prosecutor's office had advised the White House "that hased on the evil." Watergate special Prosecutor. is conducting an investigation House "that based on the evi- Watergate special Prosecutor.