

WXPost DEC 10 1975

Personalities

by William Gildea

Those were ham and cheese sandwiches in the suitcase carried by former President Nixon as he went golfing with three friends the other day in La Jolla, Calif.

Nixon, who smiled and waved at bystanders, brought enough ham and cheese for everybody in a foursome that included former White House communications director Herb Klein, onetime military aide Jack Brennan and car dealer Pascal Dilday.

Nixon, who refused interviews at the La Jolla Country Club course, agreed to be filmed practicing putts, but cameramen were shoed away after he missed four of his first five shots. Nixon reportedly shot "in the low 90s" for 18 holes.

New York Mayor Abraham Beame been given a large, mock pink attention to recent la
and service cuts

The 3-by slip