Egil Krogh Jr., head of the White House "plumbers" unit in the Nixon White House and from last May until Jan. 30 a legislative assistant to Representative Paul N. McCloskey Jr., Republican of California, has become an executive with the San Francisco-based Swensen's Ice Cream Company. A spokesman for the McCloskey office in Washington said that Mr. Krogh left there in December to work in the Congressional district office in California. The ice cream company, in its announcement, called Mr. Krogh "an unfortunate victim of the terrible circumstances surrounding the downfall of the Nixon Administration."
