

A family spokesman says former President and Mrs. Nixon are spending a quiet Christmas at their San Clemente home. He says both daughters are away with their husbands' families.

The former First Lady helped decorate their ten-foot tree with ornaments collected over the years. Her physician said the effort was all right for Mrs. Nixon, who is progressing well with physical therapy since suffering a stroke several months ago.

A Christmas card from President and Mrs. Ford is on display in the living room.

[Complete.]