

'Connally Was Against Dallas Trip'

Dallas, Tex.

Governor John B. Connally has indicated he did not want President Kennedy to take the trip to Dallas in November, 1963, when the President was assassinated and the governor wounded.

"I reminded him he had not made a political appearance in Texas since the 1960 campaign and that if he spoke at four fund-raising dinners, he would be accused of coming to Texas just to take back a lot of money," Connally said yesterday in a copyrighted interview in the Dallas Times Herald.

The visit to Texas was of the President's own making, Connally said.

Connally made the statement in reaction to Look magazine's first installment of a four-part, 60,000-word serialization of William Manchester's controversial account of the assassination, The Death of a President.

Manchester reports in the book that five prominent Democrats strongly urged Mr. Kennedy to keep Dallas off his Texas itinerary in November, 1963, because of

Kennedy Series Goes on Sale In West Germany

Hamburg, Germany

Copies of der Stern magazine, carrying the first installment of the uncut serialization of "The Death of a President" went on sale yesterday throughout West Germany.

Most of the passages from the book written by William Manchester which drew objections from members of the family of the late President Kennedy will not begin appearing until the second in the series next week, however.

Der Stern bought serialization rights from Look magazine for $72,500.

United Press

what they felt was a highly charged atmosphere of antagonism toward him in the city.

Manchester does not mention Connally.

Associated Press