The 24-year-old Oswald had asserted in a New Orleans radio interview Aug. 21 that he was a "Marxist" and different from a "Communist." But yesterday Police Chief Jesse Curry of Dallas quoted him as having told police interrogators that he was "a member of the Communist party" and that he was apparently "proud of being a Communist."

Presumably Oswald must have denied that he was a Communist when he was issued a passport by the State Department in New Orleans last June 25. Passport applications warn that it is illegal for a member of the Communist party to apply for or to use a passport. The applications also require the applicant to swear that he had not been a member of a Communist organization for 12 months or "ever sought or claimed the benefits of the nationality of any foreign state."

Oswald had sought to become a Soviet Citizen in October, 1959, but later ^{S2} said that Soviet officials refused to grant him citizenship. Yesterday, State Department authorities in Washington said that they had no evidence indicating involvement of the Soviet Union, Cuba, or any other foreign power in the assassination of President Kennedy.
