INFORMATION DRIVE BY SECRET SERVICE COULD AFFECT MANY

by Richard D. Lyons
Special to The New York Times

Washington, Nov. 7 - The secret Service has issued to the nation's Federal and local law enforcement agencies a set of guidelines which, if literally interpreted, would have them collect negative information about vast numbers of Americans.

Labeled "For Official Use Only," the guidelines were apparently issued last summer to supplant another set that had stemmed from the Warren Commission's recommendations dealing with the protection of the President.

But the current guidelines apparently go far beyond those envisioned by the Warren Commission ...
