

Break-Ins

See "The Unsolved Break-Ins, 1970-1974," by Robert Fink, who says at least 100 break-ins occurred during Nixon administration, and reports on many of them, giving names, dates, details. Huston Plan approved by Nixon 23 Jul 70.

"[Nixon] confirmed the [Huston] plan's existence on May 22nd, 1973, describing it as 'a directive to strengthen our intelligence operations,' and insisting it was rescinded on July 28th, 1970. .... Events indicate that many of Huston's recommendations were carried out: The essence survived without its label. On June 27th, 1973, John Dean told the Ervin Committee he had never seen any document to indicate the president had disapproved or rescinded the Huston Plan. On July 9th, 1973, Huston told a closed House Armed Services intelligence subcommittee hearing, the plan was never formally cancelled."
