

2/2- Dear Jenifer, Lil wants to get some of the trousers, but there is something about the difference in sizes, between Chinese and US standards, and the difference in the design or making of the two different kinds, that I do not understand. She will write. This is the one time of the year she has regular employment, as a tax consultant. She is already averaging three hours daily overtime, and she also has extra work, because of the time of the year, on her several bookkeeping accounts. So, she hasn't had time. She was working on someone's books when I fell asleep last night. Which reminds me: I was to return them this a.m. and they are still in my car! Thanks very much. Best to both,
