

Je-taping: you got me interested enough for a fast check of Nixon'd 8/22 press conf and my notes on Butterfield. He dated installation as "the summer of 1970", after April or May, which does not necessarily mean June. Nixon also said his advisors made the recommendation for special reasons I'd rather have you interpret for yourself on the chance you'll disagree with me. Reason: national security affairs. I view the 6/5 meetings as what Nixonians would regard as the most urgent national security matters. So, I find myself wondering why Warren went out of his way to lie and who fed him the bad info on which he based his lie. HW 10/1/73
