If the radio-TV news there has been like near here, don't worry about us. We escaped the local disaster. I sure am glad I was able to get the new roof on, because without it we'd have been a mess. A very great amount of rain fell in a very short time. I've never seen or heard of a flood in Frederick, with is about 900 feet higher than Washington. We are even higher. But the whole downtown area was under water. Town sealed off and patrolled with extra pilice sent in in anticipation of looting after buildings collapsed. Some od downtown of pre Revolution construction. One small creek through center of twen plus the rain actually did it. I can imagine what that way from our spring-branch, which normally is carried by a 15" bed 6' below road. It waw over the road in the a.m. Unlews we have some trees down and perhaps lost the new bridge accross the entrance to the pond, no damage here. Hope no fish washed out of pond. One never expects these things in highlands but by flukes they do happen. A friend whose wife clearks weekends in a wast shopping center told me its 1/2 mile parking lot still flooded 3 hrs after rain. HW 10/10.76
