

JW, HR, I have not read the bill of particulars against Agnew. I assume it is included in all those pages in this a.m.'s Post but I took one look at the volume and clipped and filed it, as I suppose I'll do with anything further on his resignation. I don't even know if the Post carried those 40 pages of typing. I didn't even hear all the hearings yesterday or any today after 11 a.m. (I quit after the Richardson press conference, where I thought there was a competent display of well-prepared plays on words, much more competent than any of this administration's.) You may have <sup>had</sup> the same time-pressure decision to make and may have made it the same way. I write in the event either of you did read to ask if you think I should. Otherwise I won't...Nothing new here. HW 10/11/73
