

I think I've explained that I marked passages of Gray's Judiciary committee testimony for Lil to type so that from them I could make a selection for a chapter. It is not just my terrible typing. I hope that with the selections subject to shuffling, it will, in the long run, take less time and perhaps work out better. She had not been feeling well for a while so she did not complete it. She now has. When she separates the pages I'll be including them in a 3cl mailing I'm accumulating. Because I did not start reading the testimony at the beginning, she was not able to type it from the beginning. I was first looking for a few things that I found. I then decided to read all of it. I skimmed much, sometimes skipped pages when it seemed safe. I think she has put the pages numbers on each selection. If you do not want, don't bother to return. She made a carbon from Howard... Cesar says the CQ index, chronology is on over-sized paper that will be costly to copy, as much as buying the book. I haven't seen it yet. HW 9/28/73

Nixon/ junketing

Have you noticed that from the beginning of the Agnew flap GL has not been wasting airplane fuel on himself? He hasn't gone anywhere since he returned. What reminded me of this is just hearing helicopters (which need not be his but the greater probability is that they are).

It is not because he is more worried about WG. He is in better shape on that than he has been. The one thing of which I know that can explain his perhaps record-breaking stay at the WH is sharpening the knives for Agnew. This suggests that he is field-generalling it himself.

In the short time since the beginning of the play against Agnew, there has been a remarkable change. Never hear any talk of impeaching Nixon, not that any of it had any serious prospect. Now, even unseriously, never mentioned.

One of the early chapter I wrote was Republicans Are Cannibals: Richard Nixon. I've worked it into another chapter. It is a ~~quotation~~ quote.
