

On the chance it does not occur to you, the Ford/Cambodia operation, which is receiving universal TV support and practically unstinted Congressional raves, is similar not only to Tonkin but to a little-remembered incident having to do with our illegal taking of some Cuban fishing boats (the one that led to the cutoff of Guantanamo's water and to Goldwater's demand for invasion of Cuba). In both cases it was possible to make an accurate analysis on the basis of the then released intercepts (alleged) of communications. Th us in this case they seem not to have been released. However, I knoe of nobody who did the analysis in those earlier case. (Anybody else, that is.) I suspect that in time we'll learn a little more. HW 5/15/75
