

JDW: Vol 3 #2 Counterspy has much I think you may want on CIA, Asia, Chile, Jamaica, etc. I was going to copy but the magazine @ $1.75 would cost less. However, I also do not want to send you more than you may want to read. This issue 72 pp. Fifth Estate Pub. Co.. P.O. Box 647, Ben Franklin Station, D.C. 20044. They also had an internal eruption. The wilder one seem to have departed. I really know none of these personally.

I'll be sending a long letter to State Dept. @ over the files they gave me and those they have not and what I've learned about a deliberate frame from those sent. You may not want to take the time to read. I did not to organize. Initial ltr an effort to be holiday n-mail period. Missed it. I then went over them with care. What it really represents, I think, is more than the beginning of the cold-war changes. With Latin America, it is the beginning of what we see now, the support from always of the dictatorships reinforced despite the FDR good-neighbor policy, and here is Chile. The anti-fascists had to go so there would be no anti-fascist input. Quite interesting to me that the FBI lied to State about not having any files on me. I think the real reason is that they were afraid for the files to be subjected to the usual hearing and possible suit.

China watch: Lil got tired of seeing me in the old washed-out farm workshirt so she got me a couple of colorful ones of cotten flannel. Imagine my surprise to find that although she had bought each at a different store both say they were made in China, not Taiwan or HongKong. The one I'm wearing is warmer and does seem to be much better made than most.

Funny thing here to have like two Sundays, Xmas and then Sunday, and for the Sunday paper not to come. We had a slight snow storm, maybe 3" but no more, so I suppose the Post delivery truck did not make it of the local delivery had a wreck.

This was the beautiful kind of snow, a little wet so it clung to and piled a little on even the tiniest twigs, giving them the appearance of a painting at night with the house lights out and with a pale moon.

We are enjoying the kids skating now that the ice is safely thick again. The lazy boys did not come today because they don't like the skating with a snow surface and they don't want the work of cleaning it off the ice. Two girls did, with their own shovels, spent a half-hour cleaning what they wanted for skating and had a good afternoon. The college set does not seem to go for it but from 5 to 15 they do, sometimes with the parents bringing the toddlers, sometimes with them participating. We enjoy their enjoyment. But mostly the parents who do skate don't and appear glad to have the kids off their hands for a while. Most of these kids need parents, not providers.
