

JDW: I caught it only by accident. Haven't been able to follow papers, either. But in NBC's TV news 1/8/76, on Chou's death, they actually reported that the initiative was not Kissinger's/ours but actually began with Chou and in 1969. It was played straight. Not that der K didn't do it or ex-GL didn't, much as it has been touted, including by NBC. Merely a simple, straightforward report that the new relations were Chou's idea and began with pingpong (for which also the man safely dead received proper praise)...With all the propaganda, I wonder what % of the audience caught the significance of the actual fact?
