"Woodstein" at Nat Press Club 6/5/74. Club departed from practice, which requires written guestions from which the presiding officer selects to permit direct audience questioning.

This led to (deliberate?) effort of persons with mixed motives to ask hostiles. But cards had been distributed & questions had been written out and submitted.

Bob said it would be wrong for them to have an opinion as a country until impeachment. ("The evidence goes in all directions" "We don't think not to know everything" "It would be wrong for us" "Some other graduate student 10 years from now can figure that out"

"I don't know any of us in the press have any right to withhold any information about witnesses in a conspiracy" — Woodward
