The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Gray's Campaign Expenses Probed

By Jack Anderson

"I'm a poor man," said Rep. Ken Gray (D-Ill.) plaintively.

He admitted, of course, that for hopping over Washington traffic jams. And a luxurious, 50-foot houseboat. He also wears the fanciest clothes in from a vast wardrobe of stylized | refused to answer any questions suits.

to pay for his high living out of Cape Girardeau, Mo., gave Gray he amassed a $26,000 campaign asphalt business, coughed up chest, which he tapped for such $450. unlikely campaign expenses as carpeting his houseboat and $300 honorarium by the Ameribuying tickets to Washington can Institute of Architects and Redskin football games.

Gray had little legitimate need for campaign funds, since ings legislation. no credible candidate ran against him. As evidence of this, sional Campaign Committee he ran up the biggest plurality of any congressman in the country. Nevertheless, he hoarded over his campaign finances like there's money left over, I do a possessive shopkeeper. He have other needs." He collected was his own campaign trea- another $1,000 as his cut from a surer.

The dapper Democrat is a power on the House Public iel Walker. Works Committee, which has jurisdiction over highway conworks. Many of his contributors, paid out of his campaign funds in this particular pork barrel.

Highway builder H. H. Barter, for example, contributed $2,500 was taken out of his campaign traced almost $3,000, which was to Gray's campaign. Barter was chest to make a boat payment to diverted from his campaign reluctant, however, to talk to us the Kings Craft Company; an- funds to pay Bank Americard he owns a helicopter suitable about it. All he would say was other $560.34 went to the Rubins bills. that he did federal contract Discount Carpet Center for boat work "once in awhile."

Eugene Simond of Carbondale, $411 for pleasure boat liability campaign expenditures might Congress, selected each day Ill., kicked in another $2,000. He insurance.

campaign collections. Last year, $500. James Knott, who is in the added fiercely: "If a Boy Scout cial campaign expenditures

In addition, Gray was paid a the Consulting Engineers Council for a speech on public build-

The Democratic Congresfunneled $1,000 to Gray. "They asked me if I had a tough race,' he explained. "I said no, but if post-election, debt-clearing dinner thrown by Illinois' Gov. Dan-

He stated repeatedly that he was "providing people-to-peo- been walking all over town struction and other public ple service" and that the bills sightseeing." it developed, have their hands were not "for personal aggran- with his Bank Americard, then he had listed as income. dizement."

Another highway contractor, Marina for boat repairs and warned him that some of his at all. Still another road Gray, were essential for enter- tion, Gray also rushed off a let-We discovered that he helps builder, R. B. Potashnick of taining constituents. Referring ter to the Clerk, dated Sept. 6, to the insurance policy, he 1973, acknowledging that "offifalls overboard, I want to be cov- should be separated from legitiered. I don't want to be sued for mate operational expenses conwhat little I have."

> Gray also charged off as camteam, $200 to the Baltimore Bullets basketball team and $85 to the Ringling Leothers Circus. There were also several small Rep. Ed Boland's (D-Mass.) to strike him. bachelor party, $15 for an HEW reception and several $8 payments to the Coca-Cola company.

He considered it a legitimate campaign expense, he said, to "give a Coke to a little kid who's

Gray also pays a lot of bills pays the credit card company

To pick out a few items, $1,000 out of campaign funds. We

He admitted that a counsel to carpeting, $536 to the Anacostia the Clerk of the House had be "questionable." About the These expenditures, said time we began our investigacerned with my office."

When my associate Bob Owpaign expenditures $250 to the ens asked the congressman Washington Redskins football about a $3,500 loan listed only as "accommodation for two constituents," Gray, demanding to know the source of our story, grabbed Owens by the tie, expenditures, such as $25 for clenched his fist and threatened

> Footnote: According to the Internal Revenue Service, a congressman who uses campaign funds to defray personal expenses must list it as personal income on his tax returns. Gray told us he had done this on his 1972 tax returns. He showed my associates a $3,800 figure, "diverted" to personal use, which

(c) 1973, United Feature Syndicate