Add today's note today's Anderson column on WG plea=bargaining:

I should have indicated that if he can't be depended upon to learn from other interested sources or that with axes to graind what is going on in this affair and the defense, Anderson pretty certainly could be expected to from him stuff he ased against O'Bried that seems to have come from O'Brien's files a and from files copied in Miami during this affair. In turn, this gives Fiorini was a theft, because he was used in it, and because he was not manly enough source to do this and he had identified Fiorini as a source and had offered to bail him. HW 12/26/72