

No Mr. Nice Guy for Watergate case

By Jim Squires
Chicago Tribune Staff Writer

WASHINGTON, June 3 (UPI)—

Gen. Robert Kennelmann, who pleaded guilty to the slaying of James Earl Ray, is expected to be named as a witness in the Watergate case.

One source familiar with the case said that Kennelmann, who served a prison term for the slaying of Ray, is expected to be named as a witness in the Watergate case.

Healy has a reputation for being a "nice guy" who is not afraid to take on powerful interests.

Healy's reputation for being a "nice guy" who is not afraid to take on powerful interests.

Rumor has it that Cox wants Neale to stay on indefinitely to head up the federal prosecution and that Neale is going because of an overhauled private practice in Nashville.

But some of Neale's friends contend the two-week time limit he has placed on his own participation is actually only Neale's way of giving himself a "out" if he doesn't like what he sees.

Neale's got that "pleasant" as ever, confides an associate who has discussed the case with him. "I don't think he can take charge of that prosecution and pursue it to a successful conclusion, he won't be able to turn his back on it."

MORRIS HEALE, a month ago, when it became apparent that the Justice Department was looking outside for a big name lawyer with a "clean" image, a list of potential selections was read to Neale over the telephone at his Nashville home.

"They're all good lawyers," he told the caller with a note of disdain in his voice, "but what they need is a good prosecutor."

Neale is a good prosecutor, a man who, like Hobby, Kennedy, and many others, has a list of prior convictions.

Jim Neale is also a good defense lawyer, someone that would be a good choice for a prosecutor.

large usually consist of prosecutors, the prosecution.

DR. STEPHEN S. STREIBER, in private practice and an Inland City attorney for the Middle District of Tennessee, from the state bar, informed Neale that he was going to be a prosecutor.

A sports lawyer, Neale's reputation is well known in the area, and he is expected to be a prosecutor.

They were formed in the late 1960s, and were formed in the late 1960s.

THE CLEARINGHOUSE, Neale was not a member, but he was a member of the Clearinghouse.

But the jury tampering charges were not the only ones that Neale was involved in.

Neale was also involved in the Watergate case, and he was a member of the Clearinghouse.

The attorney charges by defense lawyers in the prosecution had built his reputation as a defense lawyer.

And in the later prosecution of the case, Neale was a member of the Clearinghouse.

Neale was also involved in the Watergate case, and he was a member of the Clearinghouse.

Neale was also involved in the Watergate case, and he was a member of the Clearinghouse.

Neale was also involved in the Watergate case, and he was a member of the Clearinghouse.

Neale was also involved in the Watergate case, and he was a member of the Clearinghouse.

Neale was also involved in the Watergate case, and he was a member of the Clearinghouse.

Neale was also involved in the Watergate case, and he was a member of the Clearinghouse.

Neale was also involved in the Watergate case, and he was a member of the Clearinghouse.

Neale was also involved in the Watergate case, and he was a member of the Clearinghouse.

Chicago Tribune Staff Writer