DEAN TELLS INQUIRY THAT IN WATERGATE COVER-UP FOR HE ALSO NAMES HALDEMAN

NIXON TOOK PART AND EHRLICHMAN EIGHT MONTHS:

RECALLS WARNING

Declares He Told the President Episode Was 'a Cancer'

By JAMES M. NAUGHTON Special to The New York Tilmes WASHINGTON, June 25 ----John W. Dean 3d, asserting that President Nixon had failed to heed a warning that the Watergate case was "a cancer > growing on the Presidency," testified today that the President had taken part in the Watergate cover-up for as long as eight months.

Mr. Dean, the dismissed White House legal counsel, told Excerpts from statement by Dean, Pages 32 to 35.

the Senate's investigating committee that he still clung to a belief that Mr. Nixon "did not realize or appreciate at any time the implications of his involvement."

Nonetheless, in a day-long, matter-of-fact recitation of Mr. Dean's own involvement in the Watergate cover-up and in 47 > documents that he submitted to the Senate committee, he described a widespread effort to mask the extent of the conspiracy that he said spread from the White House staff, the Committee for the Re-election of the President, the Department of Justice and, ultimately to the oval office of the White House.

245-Page Account

His head bowed as he read calmly from a 245-page prepared account, Mr. Dean publicly detailed for the first time the following allegations of Mr. Nixon's own involvement:

The President complimented him last September for having helped to assure that the Gov> ernment's investigation of the Watergate case "had stopped with [G. Gordon] Liddy," one of the convicted Watergate conspirators.

GIn February, the President asked him to report directly to Mr. Nixon on what he learned of the continuing investigations because H. R. Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman, the two senior domestic aides to the President, "were principals in the matter," and also meeting with Mr. Dean was taking up too much of their time.

The President discussed with him on March 13 the demands by the Watergate conspirators for large sums of money to maintain their silence and that when Mr. Dean told him it could cost more than $1-million, Mr. Nixon "told me that was no problem."

(The President had told him of discussions early this year with Mr. Ehrlichman and Charles W. Colson, a former special counsel to the President, about a promise to grant executive clemency to E. Howard Hunt Jr., another of the Watergate defendants.

The President directed that the Administration try to curtail the Senate investigation and block an attempted inquiry into Watergate by the House Banking and Currency Committee last September. The President also ordered aides to make sure that L. Patrick Gray 3d, the former acting director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, would be "pulled up short" in his testimony last spring to the Senate Judiciary Committee.

¶At one point, in a meeting Continued on Page 30. Column 1

Continued From Page 1, Col. 8

on March 21, the President discussed with his aides the possibility that the cover-up might be kept secret if John N. Mitchell, the former Attorney General and director of Mr. Nixon's re-election campaign, could be persuaded to assume publicly responsibility for the burglary and wiretapping of the Democratic headquarters at Watergate a year ago.

¶After he (Dean) had resolved to try to "end the mess without mortally wounding the President" by giving information to Government prosecutors, the President apparently tape recorded an April 15 meeting with him and asked a number of "leading questions" in an evident effort to create a record that would "protect himself."

The President tried to get kim, in a "tense conversation" on April 16, to sign two letters of resignation that tended to Incriminate Mr. Dean, but he "looked the President squarely in the eyes and told him I would not sign the letters" or become a "White House scapegoat."

On Stand 2 More Days

Mr. Dean's recital to the Senate Select Committee on Presidential Campaign Activities consumed the entire hearing today. Members of the committee will interrogate him tomorrow and Wednesday and they plan to call Mr. Mitchell as the next witness on Thursday.

day. Mr. Dean did not provide any firsthand information to link the President to prior knowledge of the Watergate burglary, and the arrests of five men inside the Democratic National Committee offices. But he told, in a fourth-hand account, of having been advised in February that Mr. Haldeman had "cleared" with the President Liddy's $250,000 master plan to gather information on the Democratic opposition in the 1972 campaign. Furthermore, he said he was told last Nov. 15 by Mr. Haldeman and Mr. Ehrlichman that Mr. Nixon had decided he must obtain the resignation of Dwight L. Chapin, the former White House apopintments secretary, because of Mr. Chapin's involvement with Donald H. Segretti, the alleged director of a broad campaign of sabotage of Democratic Presidential candidacies.

Reports Burglary Order

The former White House counsel said that another aide to Mr. Ninon, Egil Krogh Jr., had told him on March 29 that the authority for a September, 1971, burglary of the office of a psychiatrist treating Dr. Daniel Ellsberg had come "right out of the oval office."

Mr. Dean's account was the first before the Senate committee to accuse Mr. Nixon categorically of involvement in the cover-up. He sat alone at the witness table, his wife, Maureen, and his lawyers seated one row behind him, to dramatize what he had said last week was the loneliness of his plight in making accusations about the President.

He acknowledged to the committee—before which he appeared only after obtaining a grant of partial immunity from prostcution—that he had been involved himself in "obstructing justice," arranging for "perjured testimony" and in making personal use of $4,850 of campaign funds.

As he began his appearance before the Senators, Mr. Dean said that he hoped that when all the facts were known "the President is forgiven." He apologized for havin gto describe illegal acts of "friends" and of indidivuals he said he admired, but he went on to recount, calmly, without passion and in narrative form, the involvement of several score Government and campaign officials in the Watergate case.

According to Mr. Dean's testimony, the effort of the Nixon Administration to limit the investigation of the Watergate break-in to those immediately arrested and to cover up any involvement of White House officials in surveillance operations against the Democratic National Committee and Democratic Presidential candidates began within two days of the June 17 break-in.

Furthermore, as Mr. dean described a succession of meetings, the cover-up involved all those whose names have so far figured in the accounts that have dribbled out of testimony before the grand jury and in interviews with Federal prosecutors, staff lawyers of the Senate select committee and prior testimony before that committee.

In his testimony today, Mr. Dean implicated in the coverup Mr. Haldeman, Mr. Ehrlichman, Mr. Mitchell, Mr. Stans, Mr. Colson; Mr. Gray, Mr. Mardian, Mr. Petersen, Mr. Kalmbach and a host of other officials at the White House and the Committee for the Re-election of the President.

Dean's Story

This, in brief, is the story Mr. Dean told today of the mounting efforts, at times approaching the frenetic, to prevent the investigation of the Watergate episode from engulfing the White House:

Landing in San Francisco on June 18, 1972, from Manila, Mr. Dean said, he learned of the break-in in a call from Fred Fielding, his assistant, and immediately departed for Washington.

He said that on Monday, the 19th, he had a succession of meetings and telephone conversations with Jack Caulfield, then with the Treasury; Jeb Stuart Magruder deputy director of the reelection committee, who volunteered that th whole think was "all Liddy's fault;" Mr. Ehrlichman, who told him to find out what he could; Mr. Strachan and Mr. Colson, the latter assuring him that he had "no involvement in the matter whatsoever" but expressing concern about "the contents" in the safe of E. Howard Hunt Jr.; G. Gordon Liddy, who said Mr. Magruder "had pushed him into doing it" and apologized for his men beraing caught, and Attorney Gen-eral Kleindienst, who said the F.B.I. and the District of Columbia police were investigating.

The most important developments on that day, he related, were (1) that Mr. Strachan said to Mr. Dean that Mr. Haldeman had instructed him to winnow the Haldeman files of "damaging materials" such as "Wirefax information from the DNX" and destroy them, and (2) that Mr. Ehrlichman ordered Mr. Dean to "call Liddy to have him tell Hunt to get out of the country," and also to remove the contents of Hunt's safe.

At Mitchell's Place

On the evening of the 19th or 20th, Mr. Dean said, he went to Mr. Mitchell's apartment. Mr. Mardian and Mr. Magruder were there, and Mr. Dean recalled only that there was a discussion of "how to handle the matter from a public relations standpoint."

At a meeting with Mr. Kleindienst—Mr. Dean could not remember whether it was the 19th or the 20th—he said, "I told him that I did not know if the President was involved, but I was concerned" because if the investigation led to the White House "the chances of re-electing the President would be severely damaged."

At this point, Mr. Dean related, Mr. Kleindienst sent for Mr. Petersen and left the two men together.

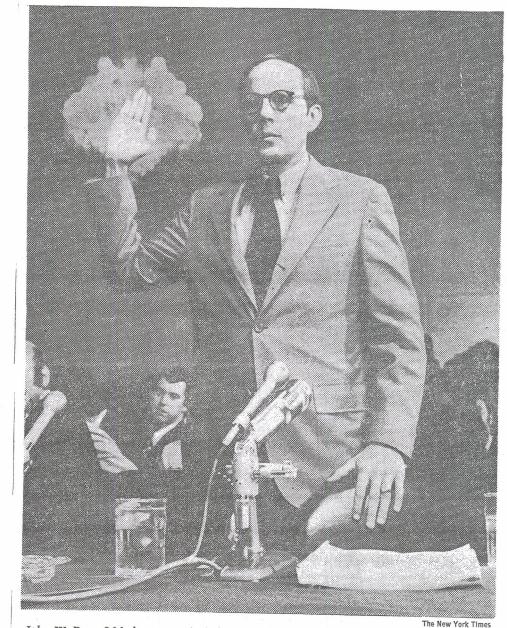

"I told him I had no idea where this thing might end," Mr. Dean said, "but I told him I didn't think the White House could withstand a wide-open investigation [and] I had reason — without being specific with him — to suspect the worst."

At mid-morning of June 20, he said, men from the Government Services Administration who had opened Hunt's safe brought the contents to him. He said the contents included a hand gun; a large briefcase containing electronic equip-ment; a large batch of classified State Department cables from the early years of the Vietnam war, a "bogus cable" implicating the Kennedy Administration in the fall of the Diem regime in 1963; "a number of materials relating to Daniel Ellsberg," who made the Pentagon study of the Vietnam war available to the press; "some materials relating to an investigation Hunt had conducted for Colson at Chappaquid-dick," and many memorandums to Mr. Colson on the per-formance of the "plumbers unit" under Egil Krogh Jr., White House aide, that had been formed on the President's orders to investigate leaks.

Separating Documents

Mr. Dean said that, on his orders, Mr. Fielding separated out the "politically sensitive documents" which were then placed in Mr. Dean's safe. The briefcase was put in a locked closet in his office, he said, and the State Department documents stored in an aide's office pending their return to the department.

Later, he said, when he reported to Mr. Ehrlichman on the contents of Hunt's safe, Mr. Ehrlichman told him "to shred" the bogus cable, the documents relating to Dr. Ells- checks to Liddy to cash, and berg and other politically sensi-Liddy had evidently tive material, and to "deep six" Barker to cash them." the briefcase with the electronic Explaining that this equipment. Then, Mr. Dean was unconnected with Water-in his chair and said, You drive thing the White House could in his chair and said, fou unvertining the white house could across the river on your way home at night, don't you?' I said yes. He said, 'Well, when Therefore, he said, he talked you cross over the bridge on your way home, just toss the Ehrlichman, and at their regested to Mr. Ehrlichman that he get rid of the bugging equip-ment since he also crossed the river. "He said, no thank you," or C.I.A. employes in-bled" about Mr. Ehrlichman's instruction, and Mr. Fielding shared his feeling that it would tion in the F.B.I. investigation. be "an incredible action to" Mr. Dean said that on June destroy potential evidence." 23 he reported on his confer-ence with Mr. Gray to Mr. not to follow the instructions. Haldeman, Mr. Ehrlichman and,

John W. Dean 3d being sworn in before reading his statement to Watergate committee

Decided Not to Obey

Kenneth Dahlberg, a Nixon volved in the break-in." middle Western fund raiser, It was at the June 2 which represented a donation ing, he said, following his rehad turned up in the Miami bank account of Bernard L. Barker, one of the Cubans arrested in the Watergate break- Mr. Haldeman and Mr. Ehrlichchell and Mr. Stans were con- ance." By this, apparently, Mr. cerned that Mr. Andreas not Mitchell meant that the agency be embarrassed and were wor- should assume responsibility ried about the four Mexican for Watergate by paying those checks, possibly, he said, be-cause they might have been Mr. Ehrlichman, Mr. De

Mr. Dean said that Mr. Stans suggestion "a good idea" and had asked Hugh W. Sloan Jr., ordered Mr. Dean to explore it the campaign treasurer, how with Lieut. Gen. Vernon A. the money ended up in Barker's Walters, the C.I.A. deputy diaccount. Mr. Sloan had ex-rector, rather than the director, plained that he had given the Richard Helms.

'used

Explaining that this money testified: "I asked him what he meant by 'deep six.' He leaned back in his chair and said Word drived the formula of the set of

Mr. Dean said that he sug-June 22. Mr. Gray, he said, had former C.I.A. employes involved and planned to talk to agency officials about it. He He said he was "very trou- also, Mr. Dean said, "expressed

On June 21, he stated, he in a meeting with Mr. Mitchell, met with Mr. Gray, who told Frederick C. LaRue, an aide to him the F.B.I. had traced four Mr. Mitchell, and Mr. Mardian. checks totaling $89,000 con- It was in this meeting, he said, tributed by a group of wealthy that he first heard discussion Texans to a bank in Mexico of "the need for money to take City, and a $25,000 check to care of those who were in-

It was at the June 23 meetwhich represented a donation ing, he said, following his re-from Dwayne Andreas, a wealthy Minneapolis business-dual way of the said, following his re-port that Mr. Gray believed the backer of Senator Hubert H. Humphrey. The total of $114,000 had turned up in the Miami Role for C.I.A.

Mr. Mitchell, Mr. Dean said, suggested that he explore with Mr. Dean said that Mr. Mit-contact the C.I.A. for assist-

Mr. Ehrlichman, Mr. Dean illegal corporate contributions. testified, thought Mr. Mitchell's