

Little more could be done to validate the essence of Levin's testimony than the White House did with its advance duty - words, its effort at advance discrediting of him & what it knew he would & did say, its over-reaction followed by its under-reaction, these blunders sandwiching a series of rapid-fire statements all self-contradictory and all ~~contradict~~^{each} contradicting each of the others. It was hysteria. It was irresponsible, but was not self-defaming.
