Colby, Helms Deny CIA Foreknowledge Of Watergate Entry By Laurence Stern

Washington Post Staff Writer

The current and former directors of the Central Intelligence Agency denied to senatorial questioners that they had any advance knowledge of the Watergate burglary.

The issue was opened up during a Senate Armed Services Committee closed hearing yesterday to hear testimony by free-lance writer Andrew St. George and by CIA Director William E. Colby.

But Colby did acknowledge that one of the convicted Watergate conspirators, Euge-. nio Martinez, alerted the CIA to E. Howard Hunt's presence in Miami late in 1971 and again in March, 1972.

At the time Martinez was working for Hunt's burglary team, which had already burglarized the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist, and Martinez was also employed as a contract employee of the Colby's allusion to the Martinez incident was made in a written response to a series of questions by Sen. Howard Baker (R-Tenn.), vice chair man of the Senate Watergate committee.

According to Colby's account, Martinez advised a CIA Miami field representative of Hunt's whereabouts and the report was passed on to CIA headquarters.

CIA headquarters, said Colby, told the Miami supervisor that "he should not concern himself with the travel of Mr. Hunt who was an employee of the White House undoubtedly on domestic White House business of no interest to CIA," according to Colby's latest state-

This incident occurred several months after the CIA terminated technical assistance to Hunt, including the supply of spy paraphernalia, which was used in the Ellsberg burglary. CIA officials said they cut off Hunt in August, 1971, because they came to the conclusion that the requests were improper even committee minority counsel though they were made under Fred D. Thompson. White House auspieces.

by St. George, in an article in of possible CIA involvement the current Harper's maga- in Watergate. Symington, on zine, is that Martinez was sethe other hand, has been a cretly reporting to the CIA on staunch defender of Helms for the activities of the White having withstood White House House burglary team under pressures to involved CIA in Hunt's supervision.

RICHARD HELMS . . . former CIA director

This was denied by Colby and by Helms, in a separate written statement.

Helms also denied a claim by St. George that he had a conversation with a CIA watch officer the monring after the Watergate break-in acknowledging that he was tipped off to the operation.

The St. George article claimed the watch officer called Helms on the morning of June 17, 1972, and told him of the arrest of "the White House crew." It quotes Helms as responding, "ah, well, they finally did it."

Helms' statement, released yesterday by Sen. Stuart Symington (D-Mo.), said: "I am prepared to swear that no such conversation ever took place."

St. George invoked the First Amendment in refusing to identify his source for the report during yesterday's executive session, according to Symington.

The free-lance writer, a selfdescribed adventurer with a heavy Hungarian accent, said he would consult with officials of Harper's before returning to testify before the Senate committee next Wednesday.

St. George was interviewed at length earlier this week by Baker and Senate Watergate

Baker has displayed a per-One of the allegations made sistent interest in the question the Watergate cover-up.