David and Julie May Visit Nixon

Associated Press

David Eisenhower said yesterday he and his wife, Julie, are considering flying to California this weekend to visit former President Nixon, hospitalized with continuing problems with blood clots in his left leg.

"We're not sure he's well enough to see us," Eisenhower, Mr. Nixon's son-in-law, said. He added, however, they had had no indications in the past few days that Mr. Nixon's health had deteriorated.

"We'll have to make some calls out there later and decide then if we should go," Eisenhower told a reporter.

The Eisenhowers last visited Mr. Nixon almost seven weeks ago when he was first hospitalized with phlebitis. Eisenhower has said in the past that Mr. Nixon calls his younger daughter, Julie almost every day.
