

States-Item Receives AP Award For Help in Shaw Trial Coverage

The States-Item has been chosen by The Associated Press Managing Editors' Association to receive a citation for its part in helping AP cover the Clay Shaw trial last February.

The States-Item was the only newspaper in Louisiana or Mississippi to receive the annual honor.

An AP member, the States-Item covered the proceedings of the Shaw trial virtually word by word and made its coverage available to the wire service. Shaw was acquitted March 1 of a charge that he conspired to kill President John F. Kennedy.

The APMEA awarded citations to 43 other daily newspapers in the nation for providing news stories and photographs to the worldwide cooperative news service.
