Burial Is Slated For Rightmyer, Ex-FBI Agent

Robert E. Rightmyer, for-mer special agent in charge of the FBI office in New Or-leans, will be buried tomorrow in Fairfield, Ill.

Mr. Rightmyer, who was retired, died Friday in Algiers

ROBERT E. RIGHTMYER

General Hospital following a brief illness. He was 52.

Mr. Rightmyer came to New Orleans in 1965 to head the FBI office. He succeeded Harry G. Maynor, who resigned ry G. Maynor, who resigned his post to enter private industry.

Before coming to New Orleans, Mr. Rightmyer served as a member of the inspection staff of FBI Director J. Ed-gar Hoover. His first assignment as an agent-in-charge was in Albuquerque, after which he served in the same capacity in Houston.

MR. RIGHTMYER, a native of Fairfield, was an account-ing graduate of the University of Illinois. He entered FBI service in 1942, working in a number of cities, including New Haven, Conn., New York and Chicago.

707

He leaves his widow, Betty, and two sons, Robert Right-myer Jr. of San Antonio and Joseph Rightmyer of Kings-

2 PLANTS, ACTUALLY

One of nature's oddest curiosities, lichens, are two plants entwined together. One, an alg , makes food through photosynthesis for the partner-ship, and the other, a fungus, provides protection from excessive drying and sunlight.