In Des Moines, where he once worked as a radio sportscaster, Gov. Ronald Reagan of California said he'd be protesting a Presidential visit to China if the President were a Democrat. He praised President Nixon's trip as "bold, courageous and wonderful," then added: "If I were a Democrat, I'd be up the walls screaming because if you look at the record you'd have to believe that a Democratic President would be appeasement-minded and would trade away the country's rights. Mr. Nixon has made it perfectly clear that he only intends to establish communication with Communist China."
