Nixon Back in Florida

Key Biscayne, Fla.

President Nixon, continuing to wrestle with the impact of the Watergate scandal, relaxed yesterday on a small island in the Bahamas, then returned by helicopter to his Florida home.

During his 24-hour visit to Grand Cay, Mr. Nixon spent most of his time with close friends.

However, he was said to be in regular touch by telephone and teleprinter with aides in Washington and at his home here. He was described as weary by some associates.

Mr. Nixon was reported at work early yesterday in the hilltop villa of his island host, industrialist Robert H. Abplanalp.
