

Nixon, Congress Rank Low in A Harris Poll

New York

As Congress confronts President Nixon on the impeachment issue, a Harris poll reports that the American people give both an equally low positive rating — 29 per cent.

"By any absolute standard," pollster Louis Harris commented yesterday, "both the President and Congress are held in low esteem by the American people."

Congress, in the poll taken among 1447 adults between July 17 and 21, rose, however, from the low of 21 per cent registered last January.

The new results were 29 per cent excellent, 64 per cent fair or poor and 7 per cent not sure.
