NALLY PAYOFF ALLEGED AT TRIAL

APR 4 1975
Jacobsen Testifies He Gave $10,000 in Two Meetings for Aid on Milk Prices

By JAMES M. NAUGHTON Special to The New York Times

WASHINGTON, April 3 Jake Jacobsen, a former dairy industry lawyer, testified here today that he gave John B. Connally a $10,000 gratuity in 1971 and joined the former Secretary of the Treasury two years later in a plan meant to cover up the payoff.

Mr. Jacobsen, the Government's central witness in the bribery trial of the 58-yearold former cabinet officer, told a jury in United States District Court that he gave the dairy industry money in appreciation cutor. of Mr. Connally's assistance in raising the federal milk price support level.

Speaking softly and hurriedly, Mr. Jacobsen said he gave Mr. Connally an envelope containing $5,000 on May 14, 1971, in the Treasury Secretary's office, saying, "Here's some of the money."

Mr. Connally, the witness ecalled, said, "thanks very recalled, said, much."

A second $5,000 was handed to Mr. Connally a little over four months later, Mr. Jacobsen testified, at a quick meeting sandwiched between the Treasury Secretary's official appointments.

Continued on Page 4, Column 3

Sept. 24, 1971, transaction. "So payments. I said, 'Here's the rest of the nation's largest dairy cooperative, after Mr. Connally reminded Mr. Jacobsen of his efforts and asked that the milk producers "raise a little money" for him.

Mr. Jacobsen, a swarthy man Mr. Jacobsen Mr. Jacobsen, a swarthy man Mr. Jacobsen, a swarthy ma

Mr. Jacobsen, a swarthy man with sleek, gray hair and dark arching eyebrows, gave his account of the alleged payments and alleged labyrinthine efforts to cover them up during 90 minutes of questioning by Frank M. Tuerkheimer, an associate Watergate special prosecutor.

When the trial resumes Man.

was there all the time."

According to Mr. Jacobsen, a was there all the time."

According to Mr. Jacobsen, a wasthere all the time."

According to Mr. Jacobsen, a wasthere all the time."

According to Mr. Jacobsen, a wasthere all the time."

According to Mr. Jacobsen, a wasthere all the time."

According to Mr. Jacobsen, a wasthere all the time."

According to Mr. Jacobsen, a wasthere all the time."

According to Mr. Jacobsen, the bank box.

Jon A. Sale, another prosecutor, told the jury and Judge George C. Hart Jr., yesterday that the second packet of money nonetheless contained 16 bills too new to have been available in 1971 and that, with the alleged cover-up crumbling, Mr. Jacobsen agreed to cooperate with the Government.

Connally gave him $10.000 at Three Others Teatific.

Connally.

Deal Over Guilty Plea

Mr. Jacobsen pleaded guilty Mr. Jacobsen pleaded guilty last August to a charge of making an illegal payment to Mr. Connally. In return, the Government agreed to drop perjury charges against Mr. Jacobsen and to abandon prosecution of him in an unrelated cution of him in an unrelated Texas bank fraud case.

Mr. Williams said in an opening statement yesterday that he would disprove Mr. Jacobsen's charges as those of an inveterate perjurer who had implicated Mr. Connally to lessen his own punishment.

Mr. Jacobsen told Mr. Tuerkheimer several times today that he perjured himself when he perjured himself when Watergate prosecutors and th Senate Watergate committee

Continued From Page 1, Col. 2 began delving into the milk fund scandal in 1973. But he bearing the signature of George said his lying was in further-P. Shultz, who succeeded Mr. "He had a lot things to do," ance of a plan Mr. Connally Connally as Treasury Secretary Mr. Jacobsen said of the alleged had suggested to conceal the in 1972. Such bills could not money, some more of the money I got for you."

The witness testified that he had obtained the $10,000 in cash from officials of the Associated Milk Producers, Inc., the nation's largest dairy cooperative had obtained the story" that no money had tive after Mr. Connally remindative after Mr. Connally a cutor.

When the trial resumes Monday, the allegations will be Mr. Connally gave him $10,000 at an Oct. 29, 1973, meeting in the challenged by Edward Bennett fice.

Mr. Jacobsen stated that Mr. Connally gave him $10,000 at an Oct. 29, 1973, meeting in Mr. Connally's Houston law of-

Williams, Mr. Connally's chief defense attorney.

Mr. Connally stared at Mr. Jacobsen, his one-time political Jacobsen, his one-time political a digar boy filled with money.

Jacobsen, his one-time political associate from Austin, Tex., throughout most of the testimony. Throughout most of the testimony. From time to time Mr. Connally took notes.

The witness glanced at Mr. Connally for only a moment, as he entered the courtroom late today and did not return Mr. Connally's stare until Mr. Tuerkheimer asked for the record if Mr. Jacobsen could identify the defendant.

"He's the silver-haired gentleman seated at the table over there," Mr. Jacobsen replied, his eyes locked briefly on Mr. Connally.

Mr. Connally.

Connally arranged a meeting at the home of a mutual Austin former press secretary to President Johnson—and warned of a discovery that "there were some Shultz bills" among the system of the manager of the manager of the two 1971 dates.

And Elizabeth M. Marshall, an assistant to Mr. Connally, a hotel official and a Washington bank officer.

Rose Cicala, who was one of Mr. Connally on May 14 and Sept. 24, 1971, the dates of the alleged payoffs.

Connally arranged a meeting at the home of a mutual Austin friend—George Christian, former press secretary to President Johnson—and warned of a discovery that "there were some Shultz bills" among the $10,000 in the deposit box.

And Elizabeth M. Marshall, an assistant to the manager of the two 1971 dates.

The reference was to money have been in circulation in 1971 Mr. Jacobsen testified that and thus, by Mr. Jacobsen's

The prosecutors, attempting to corroborate Mr. Jacobsen's account and thereby enable it to withstand rigorous cross-examination, introduced testimony earlier from a one-time assistant to Mr. Connally, a the American Security and they're adamant; they're mili-Secretary was the natural ally of the farmers. verified bank records on issue. As Mr. Connally donned black-framed reading glasses to follow a printed transcript of the meeting, the jurors heard chis resonant voice, tinged with a sibilant Texas drawl, counseling President Nixon to beware of political miscalculation about dairymen who Mr. Connally said "are organized; lians contended, the Treasury

Mr. Connally, whose voice showing that Mr. Jacobsen had rectuded a deposit box in which Mr. Jacobsen said he kept 55,000 between the two pay-Mr. Jacobsen said he kept $5,000 between the two payments.

Asked why he had made the payments in two installments, Mr. Jacobsen replied, "Well, to get more credit for it."

Mr. Jacobsen said he had set lemerged clearly from what was otherwise a scratchy recording, told Mr. Nixon that the dairy lobbyists had "a legitimate cause" for seeking government assurance of a floor of $4.93 per hundredweight of their products.

But most of his remarks at get more credit for it."

Mr. Jacobsen said he had set the $10,000 figure. "I didn't want it to be too small because I didn't want it to seem we were unappreciative," he said. "I didn't want it to be too big. It would have made it look like we bought the [milk price support] decision."

Earlier, today, the prosecution set the scene for the alleged payoff by playing for Judge Hart and the jury the White House tape recording on the dairy price-support issue.

As Mr. Connally donned per hundredweight of their products.

But most of his remarks at the White House meeting dealt with the political benefits to be derived from a decision to increase the price support level or the political risks involved in a refusal.

"They're amassing an enormous amount of money that they're going to put into political activities, very frankly," Mr. Connally told the President. He urged Mr. Nixon to satisfy the dairymen in 1971 to assure their financial support in the 1972 election campaign.

of the farmers.

But Mr. Connally, aspects, to the political aspect of it. I don't think there's a better organization in the Unit-better organization in the United States. If you can get it, uh, you can get more help

from, that, uh, will be, th,
be more loyal to you."

He warned that the Democrat-dominated Congress would enact a law raising the price supports if the Administration did not, and, Mr. Connally said in the meeting, the Democrats would try to use the situation to deny Mr. Nixon support in farm states such as Missouri,
Wisconsin, South Dakota, Ohio, Kentucky and Iowa.

Mr. Nixon eventually agreed

Mr. Nixon eventually agreed with Mr. Connallss suggestion that the Administration raise the price support level on condition the distribution of t dition the dairyment not seek another increase in 1972.