

Gerald Warren Is Going to Coa

Gerald L. Warren, deputy White House press secretary since the first Nixon inauguration, will return to The San Diego Union as editor Sept. 1, it was announced yesterday by Helen Copley, the publisher. The 44-year-old Nebraska native had previously been city editor and assistant managing editor. By telephone in Washington, where his resignation is effective Aug. 15, Mr. Warren recalled as "a most interesting, turbulent time" his service as deputy Presidential spokesman during the Watergate crisis. He "enjoyed it very much," he said, but thought that not every reporter or journalist "would want to do it."

On the eve of the third anniversary of the Watergate break-in, Leon Jaworski, special prosecutor in the case for nearly a year, was named yesterday to receive the American Bar Association's highest award at its August meeting in Montreal. He is a former president of the A.B.A.

Aleksandr Solzhenitsyn is on the road again. Eugenia Kulikov, of the Russian Old Believers colony near Woodburn, Ore., said that the exiled writer had promised to return next year after pushing off during the week following a visit of several days. Describing Mr. Solzhenitsyn as "very respectable," Kulikov said that she offered nothing in expression of her feelings to put them in their own gardens."

"The kid rides real good," said Slim Pickens, the veteran cowboy actor, after a trail ride and mini-roundup of one 1,800-pound steer Sunday with Steve Ford. The President's 19-year-old son, on a nine-year-old Appaloosa mare, and others were guests of Casey Tibbs, a former rodeo star, on a weekend expedition to El Capitan Grande Indian Reservation northeast of San Diego.

Taking a few bows for Premata, his three-month-old daughter, the Guru Maharaj Ji gave himself a Father's Day party at his Malibu mansion. A thousand of his West Coast followers crowded onto the patio, the grounds and tennis courts overlooking the Pacific—all on less than 24 hours' notice—after the Divine Light Mission leader returned from a family gathering in India. On hand from Denver headquarters was Rennie Davis, the former political and antiwar

Convicted
fiancé in 1971
Roberta month
te

a few years ago, plans to enter the Democratic primary seeking to represent California and East New York. The incumbent is Herbert Brown

The 31-year-old detective now assigned to the Bronx, joined the police eight years ago and either resign or be drafted he runs for election Davidoff, former aide to John V. Lindsay "shepherd" Detective Berg's campaign, a news conference on the steps of the conference announced on the of Super Cops named for the about the formation duo and a police series—and in Brooklyn, Hollywood. Hantz is still signed to