

SFChronicle FEB 3 1977

Liddy's Analysis of The Penal System

Fairfield, Conn.

G. To Gordon Liddy, convicted Watergate conspirator, says his four years behind bars have shown him that prisons — far from rehabilitating criminals — teach them how to be more successful at breaking the law.

Liddy said in an opinion page article in the February issue of Connecticut magazine that most inmates he knows are planning their next big "score" rather than a change in lifestyle.

Associated Press