

There have been some fruitful results to my very pertinent suspicion on Foreman. Don't do any work or anything like that, but please be alert. One of the things that would be most interesting would be if some hoods managed to get him for a lawyer and then got convicted. I've got three ~~cases~~ cases now, which is a pretty good beginning, I think. You've got an operation out there that I think is officed in the 500 block of Washington St. that might find use for such services. I now have a case where he seems to have forecast the departure of one of my more restrained correspondents. I love blabbermouths! He did, even to his client. Which solved a few minor things for me. Best, EW
