

Yours of 9/23 (had held up filing this and others to check to see that everything had been answered). "Lil is wondering whether the fashion clip is a challenge to see if she dare undertake the knitting of a Supergal costume for Jen Sr." !!!!! Had sent it thinking it would make her blood run cold, and yours too - now it's my turn!

You've mentioned that one of the colors in the blanket is yellow but haven't given us any idea of what the other colors or color are or is. I am bursting to know, sir.

We shared your opinion of the costume. I couldn't believe anyone had made it, even for a prop. She's staying too busy repaging her indexing copies of the parts of PM

The Mattoses are moving to Seattle this winter, so a heavier blanket and typing legal papers I had to file. Alas, there will now be more thanks to the deceit of the government on my damage suit. But when she relaxes, I guess it is also a kind of exercise for the arthritis in her hands, it is on that blanket. She has not yet reached the half-way point, but it is getting closer. It is also slow going. Take an hour and a half for two rows. If I didn't tell you all this, working her way up from the bottom she is well into the Chinese character. Colors yellow, pink, blue, white. Be done before winter...Interesting commentary on radio reporting today. I was repaging last part of PMI, which is mechanical, so I had the second (not CBS) all-news DC station on. They had two men at the DC peace demonstration, and there was a live conversation with two members of the Paris delegation, on NVN, other NLF. Each time there was nothing but commentary, which, naturally, made their words indistinguishable to listeners. The reported that it was happening, even that it was a peace message the demonstrators were going to take to the White House, but not a word of that message when they had it live. ...One of my young friends got started doing a mag piece on what the NYT did to me via Kaplan. It is gradually growing into a book and he calls me about it fairly often. He is changing the concept into a study of the press, what Mark Lane didn't do, with the assassinations as an example. In other words, as he is learning, he has come to see the role the press played in all of this and instead of doing an assassination study he'll do one on the press and show its role in giving credibility to the ER and denying it to those critical of it. ...He says Noguchi is ex-coroner now...If you ever see full text of Busch's report or statement, I'd be interested. As quoted by LA CNS wire Yvonne Patton, he pulled the classic, citing bullet removed from wrong place, a non-fatal bullet, and said it matched the gun. You sure have a wide-awake bunch of enterprising, old-tradition reporters out there and real crusading papers and radio stations of he could get away with that. Je, DON'T CHECK ALL YOUR FILES on this please don't. However, if anything should come in, that is different...Jackson: Randon House hardback Blood In My Eyes due two months. That is not the stuff reported in the retyped (thanks) clip on the suit. I have given this info to the man who edited his letters through a close mutual friend. Obviously, what this clip refers to is after text new book, which I presume Bantam will reprint. They are now onto this new stuff, and the man I spoke to knows the mother, has escorted her, etc. She hadn't told him/them of what this story reported. And apparently there was no reporting of the black girl who went to the jail with Bingham, that is, in NYC. I'd never heard of it and share your belief it is a clue the police would never overlook. ...Lil has given me samples of all but white, enclosed....The only reason I'm staying up (and am closer to alert than in the previous 21 hrs 45 min is that there is an interview with Tito to be aired 40 minutes hence...Wicker was censored on some show. MORE, of which I sent you the first copy, has the text. Methinks his Times has almost run. All of this is radicalizing him...He now finds himself being asked if he is not an involved reporter and asking if that was no less true of him and 200 others when they were on the lecture circuit as hawks while they reported VN developments...
