

Nixon-Property 8/27/73 HW

Until the evening TV news I was not aware that the White House had released its newest accurate, up-to-date definitive report on GL's property financing. What I know is only what was on TV, sketch, save for facsimile of GL's, prettypretty's, and two moneybags' signatures. Admitting to Rebozo at this late date and then claiming it had not been mentioned earlier to save him embarrassment is a bit much, even for GL. It now makes me wonder if in fact the Santa Ana Register's story might not have been accurate. GL is so far above his ears in all sorts of crimes another fraud is no risk when it is to cover a criminal fraud. With no filed copies of any transactions, anything can be dated any time. I'll be interested in the full texts. Nothing I heard changes the impression I have that in all this dealing, only $20,000 of GL's cash is invested. Now I find myself interested in details not possible to follow. The house was, apparently, in very bad condition. So, what would interest is dates: when he bought, when he moved in, when the federal $$$ was spent for what. It is my impression that there was some time between announced purchase and first real use, more than a visit. The cover for this would be the time required for ancillary federal facilities so he could work at being President when there... With each disclosure he appears to be a more devious, more sinister man, and with each before it he seems to have plumbed the depths... Julie was interviewed by Sylvia Chase on CBS TV tonight. She has made 150 appearances past year, went to San C from Indiana via military transport. Asked about "rental" from Rebozo, she said she pays what she thinks is a fair rent but wouldn't give the sum because she says it is nobody's business. Simply owning a property whose given value, before improvements, was $125,000 costs more in mortgage interest than she can have as combined income. Or, very fair to her and David. ... Rebozo in and then out of San C deal? Why Alpbplanalp needed no help swinging so small a deal to begin with and there is no apparent reason for Rebozo to have cut out. His presence makes this whole thing more than suspect... I find myself wondering how Nixon has his assets hidden from his published accountings of worth. He has been cleaning up for years.
