

HW:

If the attached note was meant for me, I cannot find that I have tossed off any pearls regarding Mr. Colby. In any case, I find fairly good stories on him, one by Lawrence Stern in the Washington Post for 11may73, and an Examiner story on him dated 13may73 from the Chicago Sun Times Service, "Watergate Threatens to Decimate the CIA" by Thomas B. Ross, copy of which is marked as having been duped and sent to you.

I also have in mind a more retrospective piece about Colby and the CIA, which ended more or less along the line that "one of their own finally made it," that is, became head of the agency. However I have not been able to locate this one but will keep an eye out for it and let you know if we run across it.
