

A friend on the London Sunday Times has sent me his copy of Agge's book because the bookstores he could get to were sold out. From a glance I think you'll want it. Penguin Whether or not it will be cut for US publication I don't know. No real purpose would be served but you know the spook mind and the basic principle that those from whom it is most urgent to keep secrets are the American people. If you can get a copy from Great Britain, Australia, perhaps Canada, suggest it. No index but worthwhile list of names. I haven't read yet. Just finished Marchetti.
